Reading time: 7 minutes When Â picked your safety razor, the next step is to pair it with a double-edged razor of your choice³ n. "And yes, there are many to choose from! While all of them guarantee a soft shave, there are slight - but important - differences between the performances of each brand. As such, once Â found the brand that best suits your needs, we recommend that you stick to it for Â consistency. It will take some experimentation ³ find the right double-edged razor blade for your combination ³ shaving, stubble and skin in particular. We'll guide you through what you should consider when choosing a razor, plus the brands that work best for certain circumstances to help make your decision³ not be a little easier. SHARPNESS Although all blades follow a design to fit in the safety razors, what differentiates the blades is their sharpness. In short, some blades are sharper than others. Sharper blades mean that it cuts through the stubble more easily, but when combined with an aggressive razor, it can cause irritation ³ those with sensitive skin. For beginners, we recommend starting with a slightly less useful brand while perfecting your technique. SKIN TYPE If you prone to common skin sensitivities, such as breakages or irritation³ sharper razors can be too aggressive for you. Generally, a more opaque blade is recommended, however, a sharper blade may mean fewer passes to achieve the same smooth result, Â reduce irritation³ n. This uncertainty on a case-by-case basis is exactly ³ reason experimentation is encouraged³ COST PER SHAVE In other words, durability. If shaved daily, a razor blade Especially around a week or 5-7 shavings As a general rule, we recommend switching to a new fresh blade after 3-5 shavings to ensure the best possible experience. The razors are soaked over time, and a razor starts pulling the hair instead of cutting it gently. A constant ³ causes irritation³ redness and even buds. Take a look at this quick review in our DE, Choice Blades Sample Pack. Fine-tune to the perfect double-edged razor Finding the perfect double-edged razor is a bit like finding your perfect partner. It can take some wrong turns before it hits. To help you get through the rocky parts of this new relationship³ we suggest you try a variety of razors. Start with the softest blade (soft) and use it for 2-3 shavings. Climb the ladder of aggressiveness, testing each razor blade for a shave or two. We strongly recommend that you have a notebook and a ballpoint handy to write down some notes as you go along. Then you forget what you liked either you don't each razor blade, or you don't . (You may notice irritation, close to shaving, feeling post-shaving, etc.). When you're done once, consider doing it again (as it's likely you' improved on it too). No, no, no, no, no, no, no, no. But if you know there's one that doesn't you, off the list as you continue to narrow down your soul, ahem, twin sword. The most popular razors in shaving humid (minus the Merkur that many people seem to have already tried) are in our best-selling sample pack of double-edged razor blade. We suggest testing them in the following order. These smooth razors, made in TurquÃa, are on the soft side of the razor blade spectrum. They are stainless steel blades plated with chromium-ceramic, tungsten and platinum. Using the most advanced equipment, it is drilled, hardened and ground for optimal ³ edge strength and long service life. With the privatization ³ companies throughout the SoviÃ© block behind the iron curtain, acquired Astra, a knife ³ company. These razors are produced in Russia and distributed all over the world. They are platinum coated stainless steel for durability and sharpness. This This aggression razor blade is made in Israel. Although the packaging may be more blue than red depending on where they are distributed, these popular double edge razor blades are known as Red Personna blades. They are stainless steel blades with a ¢ÂÂÂplatinum-chrome¢ÂÂÂ coating for smoothness. These Crystal brand double edge razor blades are also made in Israel. They are a sharp, stainless steel blade with a platinum-chrome coating as well. They are moving toward the top in terms of aggression. Feather razor blades and products have become synonymous with "sharp" in the wet shaving world. If you haven¢ÂÂÂt used one yet, they command respect. It is why we suggest trying this blade last, after you¢ÂÂÂve honed your technique a bit. These stainless steel double edge razor blades are coated in platinum for a flexible, long-lasting, sharp edge. Does sharper equal better? So, you might be wondering, isn¢ÂÂÂt sharper better? In a word, no! Sharp doesn¢ÂÂÂt actually equal smooth. Sometimes an extremely sharp blade will lead to razor burn, irritation, or general nicks & cuts. You might find that backing off the aggression actually leads to a better shave. And the best shave of your life is just what we are after!
